

Geopost goes digital with Google Workspace and Devoteam

Improve Geopost's workspace, and support it with services and support. Devoteam and Google also found the perfect solution for their delocalization.

The challenge

Geopost is a global logistics company with a delocalised workforce. This presented a challenge for the company when it came to interacting with employees and customers. Geopost sought the help of a partner that could help them integrate their Google Workspace ecosystem with an intelligent videoconferencing solution, and work with intelligent and secure devices.

The solution

1. Work with Real-time collaboration tools: documents, spreadsheets, and presentations in real-time 2. Provide Secure communication between customers, and employees and 3. Improve their Mobile compatibility: Google Workspace is designed to be mobile-friendly. This means that users can access their data and collaborate with their teams from anywhere, using any device.

The result

Google Workspace videoconferencing solutions have enabled Geopost to bring its teams closer together, internally and with customers. In addition, Chrome Devices integrate natively with other Google Workspace tools and can connect to a Google Meet meeting with a single click. They are also easy to install, expand, configure, and manage.

“It's been many years working with Devoteam, where they are always there when we have a challenge (...) They have always been there from the very first moment, providing all these solutions that have been bringing us value and flexibility.”
